Western Ag't, Omaha, Neh. SANTA CLAUS FOUND. Greatest Discovery of the Age. Won writed discoveries in the world have been mad Wonnerful discoveries in the world have been made Among other things where Santa Claus stayed Children oft ask if he makes goods or not, If really he lives in a mountain of snow. Last year an excursion sailed clear to the Pole And suddenly dropped into what seemed like ahole Where wonder of wonders they found a new land, while fairy-like beings appeared on each hand. There were mountains like ours, with more beautiful green, And far brighter skies than ever were seen, Birds with the hues of a rainbow were found, While flowers of exquisite fragrance were grow. While flowers of exquisite fragrance were grow While flowers of exquisite fragrance were grow ing around.

Not long were they left to wonder in doubt A being soon came they had heard much about, Twas Santa Claus's soif and this they all say, is blocked like the picture for esseevery day. He drove up a team that looked very queer, Twas a team signashoppers instead of reindeer, He rode in a shell instead of a sleigh, But he took them on hoard and drove them away.

He showed them all over his wonderful realm,
And factories making goods for women and men
Purriers were working on hats great and small,
To Bunce's they said they were sending them all,
Kris Kingle, the Glove sizker, told them at once,
All our Gloves we are sending to Bunce,
Santa showed them suspenders and many things more.
Saying I also took these to friend Eunco's store.
Saying I also took these to friend Eunco's store.
Santa Claus then whispered a secret he'd tell,
As in Omaha every one knew Eunce well,
He therefore should send his goods to his care,
Knowing his frie de will get their full share.
Now remember ye dwelters in Omaha town,
All who want presents to Eunce's go round,
For shirts, collars, or gloves great and small,
Sand some alster or aunit one and all.

REGULARS AND VOLUNTEERS. GENERAL GARFIELD'S GRAPHIC SKETCH OF THE ELEMENTS OF VICTORY AT CHICKAMAUGA.

From His Spee h at the Reunion of the Army of the Cumber and at To'edo, ep'ember 22 But the ge ius o cur government went farther than that. Besind our military academy, below our regular army, there lay this magnificent body of cultivated, thinking, independent, private citizens [applause], who, when their country was in danger, sprung to war, not as a profession, but as dreadful necessity, volunteered this life, talent, force, all, was in that glorious service under the leadership of those who were trained, and the united regulars and volunteers made the Army of the Cumberland an irresistible saying: "D-n Chinee! me allle army against any equal body of men to be found on the globe. [Applause.] The spirit of the two elements was never better exhibited than at Chicamauga, as you have heard in the porm Thomas stood like a rock, the centre of that mighty fight, and yet, with all that behind him, in front of him, all around him, in fact, were the gallant, courageous volunteere, making the elements of science. art, and courage triumphant in the fight. [Prolonged applause.] Think of it for a moment, and I take pleasure in referring to it. Here, away off on the hills, posted at a special post to do a special charge, were some three Ohio brigades, and when their commander heard the sound of cannon on the 20th of September at Chickamauga, he could not lie by and guard a bridge. [Applause] Gen. Gordon Granger, with J. B. Steedman, as second, marched to the sound of the cannon until they came into the fight. When riding forward they asked Thomas "Where shall we go in?" The answer was, in two monosyllables only, "You see." [Applause and cheers. A force almost in his rear, a force on his flank. The three Ohio brigades, the most of whom had never heard the sound of a hostile shot, filled the gap. Not less than 700 were dead and wounded in forty minutes' fighting, but they protected the flank, making them a living wall of fire around Thomas. [Cheers.] There was the practiced, trained soldier, and with him the enthusiasm of the independent thinking volunteer that made our war triumphant and victorious. Applause. I honor them bothboth elements-and am glad to know that the Army of the Cumberland has always generously recognized both of these arms of our great service. My beart is rejoiced to be with you, and I am glad to look into the faces of these men and recognize them as old comrades of the Army of the Cumberland. [Applause and three cheers for General Garfield ] Branking Wheat The annual loss to the farmers of the northwest in consequence of the careless stacking of grain, amounts to a large sum of money. We most al-ways have a succession of storms from the 15th to the 25th of September, accompanied with high winds, which has great importance of this campaign. a tendency to drive the rain into the to a lower grade. There is as much storms. Every sheaf must be placed in just such a position, and the posi-tion must be just right. The throw-ing together of a mass of sheaves won't suffice. The stack must be of a good form in order to shed the rain. a good foundation should always be built at the bottom of the stack out of rails or timber for the grain to rest on. Whenever the butte of the bundles reach the ground it has a tendency to make the grain or that portion of it musty. These who are learned in the art of the mysteries of stacking will weave every sheaf in such a manner that the hardest and most severe rain storm will fail to damage the grain. The services of such persons during the stacking season is invaluable, and the farmers should secure such workmen whenever they have not learned the trade themselves. And it is the duty of every farmer, and for that matter every one that works in the harvest field, to learn to stack grain. It is one of the most important branches on the farm. It can not be learned in one or two seasons. There is a commencement to everything, and the hardest and most severe rain storm

How the President Viewed It.

There is a good story told of the president in connection with the revacancies in the United States Army. A gentleman who is distinguished in have a son of a warm friend designated for one of the vacancies. He called upon the president and made known his requests "You see, Mr. President," in advocating the young man's claim, "his father is a distinguished ex-army officer. Hs great-grandfather was a gallant soldier of the army, and his great-great great-grandfather was an officer in the navy during the revolutionary war." These points were pressed with force upon the attention of the president. Ali of a sudden the president said: "And this young man's father, great-grandfather, and even a more remote grand-father have all been officers of the United States?" "Yes," came the remote reply. "Well," replied the president, with a merry chuckle, 'don't you think it about time some one in that family earned a living for

An old man, accompanied by a young woman, beat their way across the Lexington bridge yeaterday, and, upon arriving upon this side of the turbulent Congaree, stopped for lunch at one of the many little cookshops that line Gervais street on this side of the river. They partook of cold fried mullet and corn bread, but when saked by the landlady, a coalblack matron of the Christian Hall stripe of "hot 'possom and rice" fame, to liquidate the bill, the old man talked of having come over to surrender to the authorities for some crime he had committed, and "the red headed gal" reckoned she would "soon be in jail, where they had to feed prisoners onten state money."
